Acknowledgements

This volume is the result of a team effort and, as such, it has benefited from an array of invaluable contributions. Our thanks are therefore due to a large number of people. First, the chapters' authors, who have provided not just material of outstanding technical quality but a remarkable commitment to enriching the debate about decentralization in Mexico. We consider ourselves fortunate to share this book with Enrique Cabrero Mendoza, Thomas Courchene, Alberto Díaz-Cayeros, Fausto Hernández Trillo, Jorge Martínez-Vazquez, Charles E. McLure, Jr., Vinh Nguyen, João C. Oliveira, and Fernando Rojas.

While this book reflects the authors' own views (and not necessarily the views of the World Bank, its Board of Executive Directors or its member countries), its production was institutionally housed at the World Bank. We thus benefited enormously from the general guidance of Olivier Lafourcade (Director of the Mexico Country Department) and Guillermo Perry (Chief Economist for the Latin America and Caribbean Region), and from the auspices of the office of David de Ferranti (Vice-President for Latin America and the Caribbean Region).

We are also thankful to Adolfo Brizzi, Richard Clifford, Julio Cordoba, Jozef Draaisma, Stephen Everhart, Fernando Montes-Negret and Eduardo Velez for their illuminating comments on earlier versions of the various chapters, and to Robert Duval-Hernandez and Eric Zuckerman, for their quantitative and analytical assistance.

Finally, we are especially grateful to Michael Geller, who superbly managed the production and support team. This team included: Peggy O'Donnell, our planning and budget advisor; Elizabeth Forsythe and Diane Stamm, the principal language editors; Maria del Carmen Navarrete Angeles, who contributed to the Spanish translation of the overview; Christopher Neal and Lee Morrison who, together with Paola Scalabrin and Jeong Hyun You, spearheaded the publicity and printing efforts; Cynthia Masson-Barrero and Liliana Wiesner who helped shepherd the project along at various stages; and Esthella Provas at Chac-Mool Gallery in Los Angeles who identified the art of Rodrigo Pimentel for use on the cover of this volume. Our thanks to all of them.
